TALK OF THE TOWN

A. L. Smith of Trow hill went to Burlington this morning on a brief business trip.

For the real, old German frankfurter, try the Baltimore Cafe. The allies can't touch it—adv.

The chorus of "Honeymoon Lane" is requested to meet for rehearsal in Howland hall to-night at 7:45 o'clock.

This is just the time that a sweater will be of most use to you. Stop at Lamorey's and see the exceptional values at greatly reduced prices—adv.

Because of the change in the working hours of the granite plants the 4:15 p. m. car instead of the 3:50 Washington street car will run to Willey street and return to Nelson street.

Mrs. Rose Courstock of Washington lost a roll of bills containing $30 while a visitor in the city yesterday. Mrs. Courstock reported her loss and there is reason to believe that the money will be recovered.

Sadlier's 10 Keith avenue. Latest designs, ladies' and misses' coats and suits; also in young men's top coats, Balmacans, etc. Give us a call. Open forenoon as well as afternoons until after holidays—adv.

John Mansur, who has been spending several days in the city on business connected with his wholesale candy store in the south end, left to-day on a business trip through southern Vermont and eastern New Hampshire.

Light sprinklings of snow yesterday and to-day were regarded as boons to the deer hunting business and with only two days left in which to hunt the big game, many hunters were striking out for the deep woods this morning. The season ends to-morrow afternoon at sundown.

Charles L. Hoernle of the faculty at Goddard seminary, Miss Helen Kingsbury and Lavton Witt, students at the school, were recent visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Soble of Fairfield as guests of Misses Senath and Frances Soble, who were passing a few days at their home.

Leopold Nuisel, a New York decorator, who is doing interior tinting at the Park theatre, read a notice in The Times last night to the effect that a lost collie at police headquarters might be claimed by the owner. Instantly the painter did a water color vision in which he was the principal feature, with a very dejected dog behind steel bars in the background.

Mr. Nuisel astened to the police station and presently his vision became a reality. The collie, a valuable member of the Scotch strain, unleashed himself soon after his master arrived in Barre early in the week and for two days was a wanderer about the streets, until small boys turned him over to the police. Mr. Nuisel and the collie had a happy reunion once the former had established his claim to the officers.

In many communities last year Christmas trees were centers of happiness, and those who were working earnestly for a successful community tree in Barre this year are confident that its neighboring influence will not be forgotten. A noble tree rose out of the pavement at the foot of the steps of the capitol in Washington, with a glittering star at its apex. Those who saw it, with the great dome of the capitol rising behind it and the wings flanking it, felt that it was a national tree and expressed a national spirit.

In Grant park, in Chicago, thousands of people gathered, not only to look at the tree, but to hear the full chorus of the grand opera company and to listen to speeches by the mayor and others. Cincinnati, with its musical traditions, listened to the chiming of bells and the fanfare of trumpets and to choruses by boys, and gathered around its glowing tree. In Detroit the tree stood in the city hall lawn, gayly decorated with lights and toys, a luminous center of a vast crowd. Successful municipal trees were also reared in Cleveland, Boston, Philadelphia and New York.

A Modish Princess Dress
McCall Pattern, No. 697, one of the many new designs for January

The popular combining of materials is shown here in an exceedingly attractive model developed in velvet and broadcloth. Serge and one of the silks, such as faille or taffeta, would be pretty. This is a splendid design for wear with a separate coat of the same material as the lower skirt. A model of this sort is necessary to the one who must travel a short distance and who desires to spend the evening in town.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Albert Cayia, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cayia of the Brooklyn street extension, submitted to an operation at the City hospital yesterday for the removal of the second finger on his right hand. Several weeks ago while working as a grinder at the plant of the Vale Granite company in Granite street, the young man brought his finger in close contact with a revolving grindstone. The patient expects to be able to resume work within a short time.

It has been definitely decided that the 10th annual exhibit of the Vermont Poultry association will be held in the Church street gymnasium late in the month, efforts on the part of the executive committee to secure one of the local garages for the exhibit having proved fruitless. Confident, however, that a show than which there has been none better in the history of the association can be staged in the ancient church edifice, the committees are addressing themselves seriously to the task of preparing for the reception of more than 1,000 birds, the normal enrollment, which will probably be increased considerably this year through the introduction for the exhibition of birds owned by children.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Velvet ribbons, all colors. Knight's. Charles Birnie left the city this forenoon for Hartford, Conn., where he has secured employment.

George Miller, a traveling agent for the Central Vermont railroad, returned this afternoon to his home in St. Albans, after passing two days in the city on business.

A Barre bird, a Barred Rock cockerel owned by W. Barclay Scott, topped the list of supreme blooded poultry at the annual exhibit of the Connecticut Valley Poultry association, which closed in Belows Falls yesterday, a telegram received by Mr. Scott yesterday advising him that he had been awarded the trophy for the best bird in the show. Poultry breeders in this vicinity are inclined to look with a good deal of approval on the decision, as the bird is undoubtedly a thoroughbred and Mr. Scott is known to have the refusal of an offer of more than $150 for the cockerel. Judge Paul Ives of Guilford, Conn., who acted at the Belows Falls show, and who was one of the judges at the Vermont show in the capital last year, is quoted as saying that the Barre cockerel is the finest Barred Rock bird he has ever seen. They were 1,092 birds registered at the show.

Special sale winter coats Friday and Saturday at Vaughan's.

Mrs. Clarence Lease of Morrisville is visiting friends in the city.

A $25.00 or $22.50 suit or overcoat for $19.75 at Lamorey's—adv.

Barre Pythians, members of Vincinia lodge, No. 10, are planning to send a large delegation to Montpelier next Thursday evening to attend the annual meeting of the sixth district. Invitations to the convention were received in the city to-day from Charles D. Swasey of Waterbury, district deputy grand consul. A venison supper served by the women of the Pythian Sisters in the capital will be followed by the ceremonial conferring the rank of page by Montpelier lodge, No. 13. J. B. Estee will deliver the address of welcome and the response will be made by Homer C. Ladd of this city. The lodges in the district are: Vincinia, No. 10, of Barre; Montpelier, No. 13; Marshfield, No. 14; Caledonia, No. 15, of Groton; Ethan Allen, No. 26, of West Topsham, and Paul Dillingham, No. 31, of Waterbury.

Three Barre accident cases in which questions had arisen were considered by the state industrial accident board on Wednesday, decisions having been announced on the findings in two cases. In the case of Albert Cayia of Brooklyn street, recently an employee of the Vale Granite company, the board found that the young man, whose second finger on one hand was injured on the grindstone at the company's plant, was entitled to 10 weeks' pay instead of four weeks. E. Spaulding, an employee of Beck & Beck, who was before the board, fell and broke a bone in one arm. On one side the claim was made that the accident occurred while the appellant was on his way home to dinner, while on the other side the allegation was made that the accident occurred in the course of employment. In the case of Arthur Emmond, an employee of Jones Bros. company, the board ordered that the man should receive $7.50 for 100 weeks, unless he recovers the sight of his left eye before the expiration of that period. It is said that requests for adjustments are coming in to the board at the rate of 300 a month.
